Project Description

Description Frase (max. 500 characters):

Fare Football People Action Weeks" is a project about fight against racism and discrimination in football, sport and social life and we tried to find social inclusion methods for discriminated groups in community, using sport and education.

Project Summary (max. 2000 characters):

The idea behind the Action Weeks is an european event promote by FARE network, that a wide range of initiatives and activities that address local problems take place within clubs or communities across the European continent to present a unified stand against discrimination in the game.

A key part of the activities are the events that further social inclusion by bringing people of different communities together through sport.

Our project aims are:

- To Create a united front by bringing together everyone in football /sport by involving immigrants, ethnic minorities or other target groups (religious, with disabilities, sex, etc.)
- To Develop ideas and new practices that challenge social exclusion and to provide tools for good practices evidenced by projects, extracurricular activities or other activities undertaken by schools or other community associations
- To create a national event to promote sport, physical activities, especially football and conducting a campaign to fight against discrimination and racism in community, especially in schools.
- To develop publications that can be examples of good practice
